

Crimes Against Taste present:
‘Tenor and Baritone’

An evening of comic song exploring the hilariously tragic lives of two aspiring opera singers

Saturday 28th November @ 7.30pm

Clyde Hall,
Clyde Road, Croydon, CRO 6SZ

Tickets £10 / £8 (concession)

– on door, or book in advance by contacting Penny Locke pennylocke@googlemail.com / 020 8654 6205

Presented in conjunction with Surrey Opera to raise funds for future productions

Graham Neal (tenor) and Jon Openshaw (baritone) are budding young opera singers dreaming of superstardom. But when their accompanist Robert Webb brings them down to earth with a few home truths, they are forced into a rethink... perhaps some more diversity could hold the key to success...?

As well as some original material, 'Tenor and Baritone' features a smorgasbord of well-known musical delights: from Donizetti to Dolly Parton, there really is something for everyone!

Crimes Against Taste are one of the UK's finest (and only) classical-comedy-cabaret-crossover-acts! Here's what the audience and reviewers have had to say about them:

"Absolutely brilliant"

"Witty and fun evening"

"...exemplary renditions of many of my comedy favourites... I'm already looking forward to your next performance"

".. a lewd sense of humour can lurk beneath the proper exterior... The performance was slick and well-paced ... murmurs of approval heard from the outset and some extremely positive audience feedback at the end"

www.facebook.com/CrimesAgainstTaste

twitter.com/TasteCrimes

Trailer of our previous show, 'Tales of Lust, Love and Heartbreak' :

www.youtube.com/watch?v=1TRLTY-QQdk